Questions for Mark 10

1. How did Jesus redefine the questions/assumptions that underscore the stories in Mark 10:13-45?

Of the disciples as the little children come (vs 13-16)

Of the rich young ruler (vs 17-31)

Of the Son of Man (vs 32-34)

Of James and John, and the disciples (vs 35-45)

2. What common questions do churches ask about their current practices and future? (What are our struggles that we try to solve?)
3. How might Jesus redefine these questions? How open are we to let God meddle in our questions?
4. What questions is Jesus inviting us to consider that we haven't wrestled with yet?
5. How do we know when Jesus has reformed our questions? What are signs that our questions haven't been fully shaped by Christ yet?
